

Stranger Danger™

A game for daring people in public places

Setup

Stranger Danger has two types of cards.

Challenge Cards have challenge printed on the back and describe challenges you perform with strangers.

Stranger Cards contain superficial features that describe the stranger you perform the challenge with. They are also used to track points.

Go to a public place with a lot of strangers. Shuffle both decks and draw three Challenge Cards (take another every time you use one).

You're ready to play! Handsomest player goes first.

On Your Turn

Flip one Stranger Card at a time. After each flip, look for a stranger that matches all of the Stranger Cards you've flipped this turn.

If there are none. You lose your turn. Sucka.

If there are some. Choose to flip another card or play it safe and continue to the next step.

Receive two Challenge Cards. One from each player sitting next to you. Pick one and perform the challenge with a stranger described by all of the Stranger Cards you flipped.

There are two types of challenges:

Question: Predict how the stranger will answer the question. If you are correct, you succeed!

Request: Convince the stranger to perform the action. If they do it, you succeed!

How to Win

If your challenge is successful, collect the Stranger Cards you flipped as points. First to 5 wins!

But... But...

Do I need anything else to play?

Some challenges involve drawing or writing, so keep a pad of paper and marker handy.

Why do Stranger Cards have different backs?

This prevents conflicting descriptors. If the next Stranger Card has the same category (Arms, Torso, etc) as a card you've already flipped, shuffle it back into the deck without looking at it.

What happens if nobody matches the first Stranger Card?

If you flip a Stranger Card that does not apply to any stranger, remove it from the game and draw again.

What if I am a big chicken and don't want to do any of my challenges?

If you decide to pass after receiving your Challenge Cards, any other player can attempt one of your challenges for a chance to earn the points.

How do I predict when, or how long ago, something happen?

If you think it is within a day, choose the hour, within a week, choose the day, within a month choose the week, and so on for year, decade, century, etc.

If the stranger says no or refuses to answer, can I ask someone else?

Nope! You get one chance. Choose wisely.

How do we know players are telling the truth?

Geez, I thought these were your friends! If you're playing for high stakes with known jerks, you can always call shenanigans and check with the stranger.

I have more questions!

This page is super small, you'll have to figure the rest out on your own. Good Luck!

Printing Tips

This print and play version of Stranger Danger is the economical color version. This cost me $7 to print at a copy shop. If you have a color printer and are willing to spend a little more money, we also have a full color version with production graphics.

Printing and cutting will take about 45 minutes.

Print double sided, the long way. Like a book, not a notepad.

Before printing the whole sheet, try printing only pages 3-4. Every printer is different, so make sure that the double sided cuts line up before committing to the whole run.

When you do print the complete run, make sure to print ALL of the pages in this document. If you choose a range of pages, you might end up messing up the double siding. I've done it, it sucks.

For best results, print on card stock. It is a little more expensive, but the paper is thicker, feels better, and last longer.

The backs of each page has cut lines, cut on that side. The other side prints outside the margins so if your printer doesn't line up the sides correctly it will still look nice.

The print shop should have a big paper cutter. Use that instead of scissors. And take your time, it looks much better in the end.
